Welcome to Stinger Hockey

When hockey is mentioned at Concordia, four words spring to mind: A Tradition of Excellence. Whether it is the men's or women's program, both have distinguished themselves on and off the ice and have built a storied reputation which continues to draw top calibre student athletes to the school.

On the men's side, Concordia's commitment to hockey excellence began in 1889 when a team from Loyola captured the Stanley Cup. Hockey certainly has changed since those heady days but the university's ability to offer a superior education in conjunction with high intensity athletics has not.

Our Stingers came about in 1975 when two great schools, Loyola and Sir George Williams, both with rich hockey pasts, joined together. Since then, nine league titles, the best record in Canadian college history against NCAA and European competition and seven trips to the CIAU Nationals have been part of Concordia's winning tradition. The program has also produced 13 All-Canadians and sent over 40 players to the professional hockey ranks.

On the women's side, the last decade has been one of the best in Canadian hockey history. The team has been the dominant force in the Quebec Women's Intercollegiate Hockey League, winning seven titles in this period, including the last four. The team is again poised to win another title this year.

Among some of the great players that the program has produced are Laurie Broderick, a current member of Concordia's Board of Governors, Therese Brisson, who teaches at Concordia in our Exercise Science program, Sandy Wolofsky, who is the morning announcer for Radio Free America in Moscow, Laura Leslie, the team's all-time leading scorer and Marie-Claude Roy, who represented Concordia and Canada on the gold medal team at the World Championships last April in Finland.

But athletic talent is only part of Concordia's tradition. The aim of both programs is the overall development of the student athlete. Excellence is expected in the classroom and both programs do a fantastic job of graduating a high number of players.

With first rate coaching staffs, winning traditions, outstanding academics and established support services, Concordia is and will continue to be the place for the serious hockey player.

So come out and rediscover the thrill, the thrill of Concordia hockey.

1992/93 Women's Hockey

Success breeds success and that is all anyone needs to know about the Stingers women's hockey team. This year's team will once again look to dominate the QWHL, which includes Bishop's, McGill, St-Laurent, John Abbott and Trois-Rivières, and drive towards a fifth consecutive league title.

It will be a veteran squad that coaches Les Lawton and Julie Healy will send out on most nights. Concordia has thirteen returning players, including a couple of the world's best. Goaltender Marie-Claude Roy, who shared duties with Manon Rhéaume as Canada won the gold medal at the World Championships, will be between the pipes. Concordia's all-time leading scorer, Laura Leslie, who has averaged a Gretzkyesque two-plus points per game will lead the scoring assault up front. She'll be joined by Laurie Cartman, Andrea Lynch, Ginnie Brulé, Martine Bérubé, Tracy Robinson and last season's Rookie-of-the-Year Lisa Jordan as the Stingers look to improve on an attack that could be classified as lethal.

Even with all that scoring punch, the Stingers take great pride in their defense. Standout blueliners Elaine Bedard, Lisa Devison, Lynn Ann Mageau and Tamara McKernan will anchor the crew. Behind Roy, Leslie Jordan, Concordia's goalie of the future will provide superior relief.

Newcomers to this year's team include Christine Lapointe, a winger who transferred from Western, Susan Cartman on defense, Kellie Rae Ryan, an All-Star last season with John Abbott on defense and the most experienced newcomer a team could ask for in Kathy Morrison. Kathy spent four years with the McGill Martlets before coming to Concordia for the university's Sports Administration diploma program.

A winning tradition only tells part of the story. Discipline, commitment and excellence in academics are qualities that make this program one of the most respected and feared in Canada.

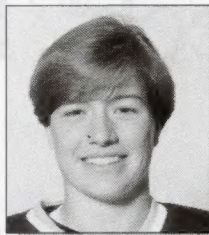

#1 Marie-Claude Roy

Goaltender

M-C could be one of the greatest female goaltenders to ever play the game... was a member of Canada's National team which won the gold medal in convincing fashion in Finland last April... an excellent technician who gives up very few rebounds and always is there to make the big save... has an excellent chance of being the number one goalie on Canada's first women's Olympic team in 1998... should backstop the Stingers to a fifth straight league title.

Steven Tamas will be on board this year as the announcer for the inaugural Royal Challenge. A former member of Loyola Junior Varsity hockey in 1978-79, he got his first taste of announcing 15 years ago when he did stats and announcing for the Laval Pee-Wee tournament. He continues to be active in minor hockey. For the last 15 years he has been a referee in the West Island leagues. As a faculty member at Concordia, Steven has held a position on the Board of Governors. His mandate ended in June, 1992 and he has now moved on to become a member of the faculty Council.

An avid fan of the beloved Montreal Canadiens, Steven also finds time to participate in indoor soccer where he is a goalie for his team.

1992/93 Men's Hockey

There is a new look to the Stingers men's hockey team this season as they try to find a permanent home and prove to the rest of the OUAA that they should be allowed to remain in the league.

Relatively, they are a young team this season. They have lost twelve lettermen including All-Canadian goalie Bobby Desjardins, forwards Marc Morin, Steve Sonoski and Mark Davidson and former team captain Jeff Gill, but the returning players on the squad are premier performers. New team captain Richard Ayotte, alternate captain Pat Ryan and Steve Salhany, the top three scorers from last season are all back.

The Stingers will also be returning several quality defensemen. Back for another season are Derek Potts, Skip Langton and academic All-Canadian Mike Pohorly as are Darren Boudreau, Andrew Stewart and Daniel Picard, three solid players who will add a lot of heart to the team. Scott Donaldson, back for his third season, will help teach and solidify a young goaltending group.

Concordia also has several blue-chip recruits coming in. Defensemen

Benoit Therrien and Eric Rochette and forwards Pierre Fillion and Patrice Martineau all have major-junior experience and should have an immediate impact on the team. Brent Riddall, a solid defenseman who will join the team in the second half and Angelo Karitsiotis, who has stepped into the number one goaltending spot, will also play critical roles.

It will be a long season, but the OUAA East has no runaway teams and a solid season by the Stingers should make their OUAA finale one to remember.

YVES BEAUCAGE - MEN'S HEAD COACH

It is never easy to come to a hockey program and mold it in your image. It is even harder to do this when you have to take over from a coaching legend. Yves Beaucage has had to do this and has done an excellent job in his short tenure to make Concordia one of the most exciting teams in the OUAA.

Beaucage joined the Stingers in 1988 as an assistant coach and Director of Player Recruitment and he took over as head coach from Paul Arsenault before the 1990-91 season. He proved to be a natural, taking the team to a 15-9 record, good for second place in the OUAA East and enough to win him Coach-of-the-Year honours. Last year, which was a transition season for the team, he still came within five minutes of a playoff upset of Toronto.

Beaucage started his career as an assistant with McGill in 1985 after a stellar career with the Redmen. His name is still prominent in the team's record book and he capped his career off as the team captain. He spent a year across the pond in France, where he played professionally, before returning to the university ranks.

BLAKE HAMBLETON - ASSISTANT COACH

Blake is back with the Stingers for his third season as an assistant coach and his work with the team's defensive unit and his recruiting are really starting to show.

A former Stinger blueliner, he was chosen as the team's Rookie-of-the-Year way back in 1988. A certain outstanding career was cut short after only two seasons by an injury but he has put his knowledge and skills to work and has turned a young defense into a unit to be reckoned with.

Hambleton's recruiting in the Ontario region is also starting to pay handsome dividends. Nine Ontarians are members of this year's squad and most will play important roles on the team.

Blake also displayed impressive skills in the classroom during his academic career at Concordia, graduating with degrees in Political Science and Sociology.

ROB BOYLE - ASSISTANT COACH

Rob joins the Stinger coaching staff this year and he will be a welcomed addition to an already strong group. A former Stinger standout for three seasons, he brings plenty of enthusiasm and knowledge behind the bench and those qualities should rub off on the players.

While at Concordia, he obtained his B.A. in Leisure Studies and is currently pursuing a diploma in Concordia's Sports Administration department. After his playing career with the Stingers, Rob headed for the hockey 'hotbed' of Scotland, where he played professionally for one season before heading back to Canada.

In addition to his coaching duties, Rob will be helping with recruiting and the off-season program for the hockey Stingers.

LES LAWTON - WOMEN'S HEAD COACH

Every winning program needs excellent coaching and the Stingers have been blessed to have one of the games finest in Les Lawton.

Les came to the Stingers women's program in 1982 as an assistant coach and his knowledge of the game and dedication to the team made him the logical choice for the top spot when it was available the following season.

Lawton has built the Stingers program into one of the finest in North America. He consistently has brought in talented players and has made them even better. Last year, Les was a member of the five-person evaluation committee which helped select the members for Canada's National team for the World Championships in Tampere, Finland. Some experts feel that Lawton may have the inside track on the head coach position for the 1994 team.

Les has consistently been able to turn out winning records in his ten seasons here. He has won 7 Quebec Women's Intercollegiate Hockey League titles and he picked up his 200th career win in last year's final game against CEGEP St-Laurent.

JULIE HEALY - ASSISTANT COACH

Julie is an excellent coach in her own right and could be a head coach in many other programs. She first came to Concordia as a player in 1978, where she enjoyed a stellar career, before joining Lawton behind the bench for the 1985-86 season. In her capacities as a coach she has brought the same enthusiasm and discipline that exemplified her playing career.

Julie has helped develop the Stingers program into one of the nation's best and will get a chance to showcase her talents this February when she will be behind the bench of the Quebec Womens Under-18 provincial team for the National championships which will be held at Concordia.

1993 NATIONAL UNDER-18 WOMEN'S HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIPS

STRONGER FASTER YOUNGER FUTURE OLYMPIANS AT CONCORDIA

This year Concordia is honoured to host the inaugural National Under-18 Women's Hockey Championships, which will take place at Loyola Arena from February 18th to 21st. Six teams from Ontario, Alberta, Saskatchewan, P.E.I. and Quebec will participate in the four day round-robin tournament. The Quebec provincial team will be coached by Stinger assistant coach Julie Healy. This first-ever national tournament will showcase Canada's top junior players and is guaranteed to provide fans with intense competition and high calibre action. These players represent our future Olympic and university stars.

The tournament will also play an integral part in the development and the promotion of women's hockey, on both the regional and national levels. Karen Wallace, director of the CAHA's Female Hockey council, has said "(the tournament) signals the overwhelming growth in the minor women's hockey and augers well for its future in Canada." The tournament kicks off Thursday, February 18th in the morning and the gold medal match is slated for Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

For more information about the tournament please call the Concordia Department of Athletics main office at 848-3850
